Introduction

The Madras Institute of Development Studies was founded in January 1971 as a trust by Dr. Malcolm S. Adiseshiah and Mrs. Elizabeth Adiseshiah with a four-fold objective:

To undertake studies and research pertaining to development problems with special reference to the agro-rural aspects of Tamil Nadu and the problems of the economically and socially backward sections of the population throughout the country;

To conduct seminars and conferences on development problems and programmes of the state ;

To foster inter-university co-operation among the social scientists of the universities of the four southern states and to promote interdisciplinary research; and

To bring out publications relating to the above three functions.

During 1976 the Government of India through the Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi, sent a mission headed by Prof. D. T. Lakdawala to study the possibility of developing the Institute into a National Institute of Social Science Research. On the basis of the recommendations of the mission the Institute was reconstituted as a National Institute in March 1977 under the joint sponsorship of the Government of India through the Indian Council of Social Science Research and the Government of Tamil Nadu with a Governing Council comprising representatives of the ICSSR and State Government and of the universities of the four southern states, the original trustees of the Institute and co-opted social scientists (see Appendix I). The trustees gifted to the reconstituted National Institute its land and buildings, its library, furniture and equipment and a cash endowment.

Dr. Malcolm S. Adiseshiah served as the Director of the Institute from its inception till June 1978. Dr. C. T. Kurien took up charge as Director of the reconstituted Institute in July 1978.

Appendix II gives the list of staff of the Institute as of July 1980.

Additions to faculty

During the year under review the Institute began to take shape as a community of scholars. In September 1979 Mr. S. Guhan, voluntarily retired from the Indian Administrative Service to become a full-time researcher in the Institute as a Senior Fellow. As a member of the IAS, Mr. Guhan had served the Government of Tamil Nadu in many capacities before going to Delhi as Chief, Survey and Statistics Division of the Union Planning Commission. Subsequently, he has held many important positions both at the Centre and in the State where he was Secretary, Finance and Planning from 1974 to 1978. In 1978-79 he served as Senior Economist, Independent Commission on International Development Issues, Geneva, at the end of which he visited the People's Republic of China on behalf of the Commission.

Dr. John C. Harriss and Dr. Barbara Harriss of the University of East Anglia also joined the Institute as Visiting Fellows in September 1979. They were both in Tamil Nadu and other parts of India during 1972-75 as members of a research team from the Cambridge University that made a comparative study on agricultural development in Tamil Nadu and Sri Lanka. They both have many publications to their credit. Dr. Barbara Harriss's study on Paddy and Rice Marketing in Northern Tamil Nadu was one of the publications brought out by the Institute last year. Although the Harrisses have been spending most of their time in Coimbatore doing their field research, they have participated actively in the research programme and activities of the Institute during the year.

Mr. Sarajit Majumdar joined the Institute as Research Associate in October 1979. Mr. Majumdar completed his Ph.D work in the Sardar Patel Institute of Economic and Social Research, Ahmedabad and his Ph.D thesis on "Employment growth in India : Structural analysis and policy requirements" was submitted to the Gujarat University in December 1978. Before coming to the Institute Mr. Majumdar also worked in the Centre for Development Studies and Activities, Pune.

Dr. Umamaheswaran Kalpagam joined the Institute as a Fellow in November 1979. After obtaining the MA degree from the University of Madras in 1975, she took her Ph. D from Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur in 1978. Subsequently she taught Economics at IIT, Kanpur and IIT, Bombay. Her academic work so far has consisted of theoretical issues. But in the Institute she has been trying to enter into applied problems mainly relating to the Tamil Nadu economy.

Dr. V. N. Deshpande of the Department of Philosophy of the Karnatak University, Dharwad was a Visiting Fellow of the Institute for a little over three months from mid-November 1979. During his stay in the Institute Dr. Deshpande wrote a long essay on the methodological issues arising from the papers on "Poverty" presented during the three Interdisciplinary Research Methodology Workshops organised by the Institute in 1974, 1975 and 1976 and also completed the editing of these papers.

Dr. R. N. Poduval, formerly Chief Professor of Economics, Presidency College and Professor of Economics, Annamalai University joined the Institute as Honorary Professor in July 1980. After leaving the University Dr. Poduval worked as Economic and Statistical Adviser, Ministry of Food and Agriculture, Government of India and with the Food and Agricultural Organisation.

The interaction of these scholars has been a stimulating experience and has set the tone for the working of the Institute. (A note on faculty publications and activities appears in Appendix III.)

Research and Studies

With the increase in the faculty of the Institute, there were several "House Seminars" to decide what the research orientation of the Institute should be and what specific studies should be taken up immediately. The need to combine some kind of coordinated effort into selected problems of immediate relevance and research themes of a long term nature carried out by individuals according to their specific interest was constantly stressed. At one stage it was suggested that intensive studies of some districts, blocks and villages should be taken up immediately and that a series of studies on the food economy of Tamil Nadu, the process of industrialisation, and health and education in the state should also be attempted. In a more recent discussion the programme of studies for the immediate future has been more specifically identified. The programme of studies approved for 1980-81 is discussed subsequently.

The following studies have been completed during the year:

a) Mr. T. Jayachandran : Impact of mechanisation in knitting nylon fishing net industries in Manakudy. (ICSSR project)

b) Prof. A. Aiyappan : A diachronic study of changes in contraceptive and fertility behaviour and its sociocultural determinants in a Tamil Nadu village and its eight Harijan hamlets during the decades 1956-76. (Family Planning Foundation project)

c) The second stage of the interdisciplinary study on Caste and class in Vannipakkam village conducted by Dr. N. Subba Reddy, Professor of Anthropology, University of Madras with the support of the Institute was completed and a report was submitted at the Tenth Interdisciplinary Research Methodology Workshop which was held at Mysore in May 1980.

d) Mr. K. Nagaraj has concluded his doctoral study on "Interrelationships between agricultural markets—A case study of South Kanara" and expects to submit his thesis at the Indian Statistical Institute, Calcutta in October.

e) A major study that was taken up and completed during the year was the evaluation of the Backward Areas Programme in Ramanathapuram and Dharmapuri districts. The study was sponsored by the Central Planning Commission to evaluate the impact of the special programmes for the development of backward areas and weaker sections on the income, levels of living and employment opportunities of intended beneficiaries. The project, under the supervision of Mr. S. Guhan, commenced in January 1980 and was completed in July 1980. Apart from Mr. Guhan, Mr. K. Nagaraj, Mr. V. Chandrasekara Naidu, Mr. K. Bharathan and Mr. V.K. Ramachandran from the Institute and Mr. John Kurien of the Centre for Development Studies, Trivandrum, were also involved in the study.

The following are the on-going studies:

1. A major project in which the Institute is involved is an ICSSR project on "State level studies on the dynamics of rural transformation". The states where the studies are going on are Kerala, Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh, Orissa, West Bengal, U.P., Punjab and Rajasthan. These studies follow the pattern of work done by Dr. C. T. Kurien on "Dynamics of rural transformation in Tamil Nadu". Dr. Kurien is now co-ordinating the other state level studies. The second workshop of the Directors of the state level studies along with some consultants was held in New Delhi on June 28 and 29, 1980.

2. Dr. John Harriss has been conducting field studies in and around Coimbatore on the "Dynamics of the informal sector".

3. Dr. Barbara Harriss has also been conducting field studies in Coimbatore on "Agricultural marketing in Tamil Nadu with special reference to regulated markets".

4. The work on the "Area Studies Bibliography" sponsored by the Social Science Documentation Centre of the ICSSR has been making good progress. Some 700 titles of research work pertaining to social science aspects of Tamil Nadu have been identified, 323 being in Tamil.

Publications

Books

Educational Profile of Jobs in Tamil Nadu by V.J. Ravishankar and K.A. Zachariah was brought out as a publication of the Institute in October 1979 by Sangam Publishers.

Sangam Publishers are also bringing out two more books of the Institute:

Non-Formal Education for Harijan Agricultural Labourers in Tamil Nadu—Survey and Curriculum by V. Chandrasekara Naidu

Introduction to Mathematics and Statistics by N. Rajagopala Rao and V. Lakshmana Rao

Another work awaiting publication is "Poverty—An interdisciplinary symposium" which is a selection of papers on "Poverty" presented at the three Interdisciplinary Research Methodology Workshops held during 1974-76. The papers have been selected and edited by B. Sarveswara Rao and V.N. Deshpande. Negotiations with prospective publishers are now going on.

All publications of the Institute are listed in Appendix IV.

Working Papers

The following Working Papers representing the research findings of the faculty of the Institute were produced during the year:

(i) Working Paper No. 6

The Mode of Production Controversy: Themes and Problems of the Debate — John Harriss (Oct. '79)

(ii) Working Paper No. 7

How to Study Agricultural Marketing and How Not to Study It — Barbara Harriss (Mar. '80)

(iii) Working Paper No. 8

Agricultural Commerce and Rural Development in India: Resolving Theoretical and Substantive Confusion — Barbara Harriss (Mar. '80)

(iv) Working Paper No. 9

Nehru and Village India: An Assessment of Nehru's Philosophy of Social Action — C. T. Kurien (Apr. '80)

(v) Working Paper No. 10

Social Problems and Social Sciences — C. T. Kurien (Apr. '80)

(vi) Working Paper No. 11

Coarse Grains, Coarse Interventions, Part I Regulated Marketing—A Case Study of Andhra Pradesh and Karnataka — Barbara Harriss (May '80)

(vii) Working Paper No. 12

An Analysis of Internal Migration in Tamil Nadu — C. T. Kurien and Abdul Huq (June '80)

(viii) Working Paper No. 13

Coarse Grains, Coarse Interventions, Part II State Trading—A Case Study of Dryland Regions of India — Barbara Harriss (July '80)

All Working Papers brought out by the Institute are listed in Appendix V.

Digest Series and Data Series

In the course of the discussion on the work of the Institute it was decided that in addition to Working Papers (which report the findings of research completed) two other kinds of publications should be taken up. These two have been designated Digest Series and Data Series. The purpose of the Digest Series is to bring to the attention of researchers the state of current research on selected areas which are of special concern to them. The first of the Digest Series "Village Studies in Tamil Nadu : Availability and Some Suggestions for Future Work" by S. Guhan was brought out in February 1980. A second piece in the Digest Series by Sarajit Majumdar reviewing the literature on "Technological Change and Labour Utilisation in Agriculture" has been completed and is to be brought out soon.

The Data Series scrutinise and annotate the main sources of data pertaining to major areas of research. The first piece in the series "A Note on Sources of Official Data on Land Holdings in Tamil Nadu" has been prepared by V. K. Ramachandran, Ph.D Scholar, and will be brought out soon.

The Bulletin—Madras Development Seminar Series has been appearing regularly every month.

Seminars

Monthly Seminars

The Monthly Seminars held on the last Thursday of every month have been proceeding smoothly. The main theme of the 1980 seminars is Analysis of Poverty in Tamil Nadu.

Research Scholars' Seminars

Under the Research Scholars' Seminar Series started in October 1978 to bring together research scholars in Economics and other social sciences from different institutions in the city, the Institute held a number of seminars. However, the response to these seminars from other institutions has not been very satisfactory

Special Seminars

A number of special seminars were also held during the past year.

A list of all seminars held during the year under review is given in Appendix VI.

Inter-university Cooperation

Ninth Meeting of Heads of Departments

The Ninth Meeting of Heads of Departments of Social Sciences of Southern Universities held at the Institute on November 17 and 18, 1979 was one of the most representative and best attended meetings with 24 members from 14 universities and 9 disciplines participating. Of this, four new universities were represented for the first time and 9 participants were new to the meeting.

The reports on teaching and research from the various universities and the discussions concentrated mainly on the pros and cons of the M.Phil. programme. While the views expressed were divergent, there was a general feeling that the course should be kept as flexible as possible, and that the research methodology course should be related to the nature of the subject itself and the particular problems that the researchers were concerned with.

In a special paper, Dr. Gopala Sarana, Professor of Anthropology, Lucknow University (until recently of the Karnatak University) reviewed the status of teaching and research in Anthropology in South Indian Universities. Another paper presented during the session was Dr. V.N. Deshpande's, dealing with the methodological issues thrown up by the papers presented during the three interdisciplinary workshops on "Poverty".

Tenth Census of Social Science Research

Work on the census was initiated during February 1980. Though 41 departments (from 17 universities), 6 research institutes and 8 colleges responded, the total number of reports received was 276, which is much below last year's 309. Some new features in the Tenth Census are: inclusion of the name(s) of researcher(s) and supervisor(s), indication of the sub-area within the broad subject to which each project belongs, and an appendix containing the addresses of institutions which responded to the census.

The number of reports received under different subjects was as follows:

Economics 140, Psychology 47, Commerce and Business Management 30, Education 12, Anthropology 11, Sociology 9, Interdisciplinary Research Projects 9, Home Science 6, Law 5, Social Work 3, History 2, and Philosophy 2.

No reports were received from Geography and Political Science and Public Administration. By states, the breakdown was:

Tamil Nadu 134, Karnataka 59, Andhra Pradesh 49, and Kerala 34.

The results of the census were published in the May-June issue of the Institute's Bulletin. The census report has also been brought out as a special non-priced publication and is available to researchers interested in it.

The Institute is making every effort to see that the census is made as comprehensive as possible for the benefit of the research community.

Tenth Interdisciplinary Research Methodology Workshop

The workshop, organised by the Institute in collaboration with the ICSSR, was held at the Institute of Development Studies, University of Mysore, Mysore from May 28-31, 1980. It brought together 35 participants representing various South Indian universities and research institutes. Participants were drawn from the disciplines of Anthropology, Economics, Education, Environmental Science, Geography, Law, Philosophy, Political Science and Public Administration, Regional Planning, Sociology and Social Work. The theme of the workshop was "Rural Change—An Interdisciplinary Perspective", which was a continuation of the discussions on rural problems conducted during the preceding three workshops.

The following papers were presented at the workshop:

1. "Contradiction between vision and emerging reality: Dynamics of rural India"—P.C Joshi.

2. "Some conceptual and methodological issues in understanding poverty in the structural perspective: Some reflections" — V. N. Deshpande.

3. "A case study on the role of the practitioner working with the rural poor" — M. Lakshmanna (Mrs.).

4. "Rural change and the political process in India"— K. Raghavendra Rao.

5. "Environmental problems in rural India"—S. Krishnaswamy.

6. "Law and social change" — K. Gupteswar.

7. "Mechanisation of agriculture and the changing dimensions of caste and class" (Report on the study of Vannipakkam village)—N. Subba Reddy.

The discussions at the workshop ranged over a number of subjects and there was a good and serious interdisciplinary dialogue.

Long Term Study Project on the Indian Economy

The second session of the study project was held at the Institute from January 28 to 30, 1980, and its theme was the same as that of the first, viz., Indian Industrialisation. This session had wider participation than the first, and eleven papers covering the following four areas were presented and discussed : State and industrialisation ; Patterns of growth in Indian industries; Costs, Prices and Profits; and Socio-economic aspects of industrialisation. Participants of the session included distinguished economists from various parts of the country, journalists, bankers, academicians, research scholars and others from the city. During the course of the session, a special session on "State and industrialisation" was held and this was open to a wider circle comprising representatives of large and small industry, government, financial institutions and others.

An attempt is now being made to have select papers presented at the two sessions brought out as a publication of the Institute.

National Adult Education Programme—Evaluation

The evaluation, entrusted to the Institute by the Union Ministry of Education, formally commenced in July 1980 with the appointment of Mr. K. Ramakrishnan as Chief in the Evaluation Unit. Since then a Research Associate (Mr S. Selvam) and a Research Assistant (Mr. C. Annadurai) have been appointed.

Library and documentation

The Library added 1,098 volumes between August 1979 and July 1980. It receives 100 journals which include journals on subscription, exchange and complimentary basis. It now has three sets of encyclopaedias—Encyclopaedia Britannica (New Edn.), International Encyclopaedia of the Social Sciences, and Great Soviet Encyclopaedia—the last one being a recent addition. Back numbers of journals worth Rs. 50,000 were acquired and bound and kept in the journals section. (Back numbers of some of the foreign journals are awaited.) Further, a set of publications of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development was sent to the Library by the Development Centre, Paris. Apart from this the Library also received about 150 books as gift, the major part being donated by a senior faculty member of the Institute.

The Library brings out a monthly list of additions to the Library and a list of relevant articles from journals. As usual consultancy service is available for researchers and scholars of other institutions, and a sizeable number of scholars of other institutes have made use of the Library.

Research guidance

The three part-time M.Phil. scholars of the Institute have all completed their work and submitted their M.Phil. dissertations:

K. Bharathan	—	"Changes in the composition of industries in Tamil Nadu: 1960 to 1970—A study of the factory sector"
B. C. Moses	—	"Trade and urbanisation—A case study on Villupuram town"
C. Selvaraj	—	"A study of occupational structure in Tamil Nadu"

Part-time Ph.D. scholars, Josef James and R. Rajkumar, are in the final stages of preparation of their Ph.D theses.

The Institute also has three full-time Ph.D scholars:

V.K. Ramachandran	—	Receiving a Ph.D fellowship of the Institute.
P. Usha and S. Janakarajan	—	Receiving ICSSR's Ph.D fellowship.

Finance

As in the previous years, the Institute has been receiving grant-in-aid (recurring) from the ICSSR and the State Government who share the expenditures on 50 : 50 basis. For 1979-80 the two agencies contributed Rs. 2 lakhs each. Some of the non-recurring expenses of the Institute are also being met by the ICSSR and the State Government. The audited statement of accounts for 1979-80 appears as Appendix VII.

Building

In view of the rapid expansion in the staff and activities of the Institute, there is urgent need for more working space. Hence a 770 sq. metre, four-storeyed building adjoining the existing building is now under construction. It is expected that the new academic building will be ready for occupation by the end of 1980.

Visitors

The Institute had several distinguished visitors from India and abroad, many of whom met and held informal discussions with the members of the faculty. (See Appendix VIII)

Programme of work for 1980-81

As mentioned already there have been several discussions by the faculty about the research and training programme of the Institute. The note on "Research Perspectives of the Institute" approved by the Governing Council at its March 1978 meeting formed the basis of these discussions and the attempt has been to spell out into operational terms the guidelines contained in that note. Three specific questions were debated : (i) How to make the research work of the Institute closely related to problems pertaining to Tamil Nadu while at the same time being sufficiently aware of socio-economic problems being discussed in the country at large, as also in the international arena ; (ii) How to concentrate on concrete problems without losing sight of the broader methodological aspects and the deeper theoretical issues involved in any research into social problems; and (iii) How to ensure that the research work of the Institute has a focus and that some corporate research is done without hampering the initiative and particular interests of individual members of the faculty.

These questions, obviously, do not have ready-made answers. The answers can come only through actual programmes of research wherein the questions are kept alive. The experience of the past year has yielded the following insights. First the world of books from which academic research draws its sustenance is a highly circumscribed one. Research problems are perceived and procedures of enquiry are indicated by making a conscious plunge into the real world through field studies and discussions with a large cross section of people who experience and handle concrete problems. Second, working together in groups on research problems provides considerable intellectual stimulation and companionship. And third, while being engaged in the analysis of practical problems it is important to deepen the understanding of these problems through systematic study programmes.

In drawing up the programme of work for 1980-81 all these factors have been taken into account.

Research programme

The following programme of research has been adopted for 1980-81 :

a) "Patterns of internal migration in Tamil Nadu"— Field study preliminary to a larger work on Rural Change, Migration and Urbanisation. (C. T. Kurien, K. Nagaraj and Sarajit Majumdar)

b) Study of selected sectors of the Tamil Nadu Economy:

Health, Land	(S. Guhan)
Industries	(K. Bharathan)
Education	(V. Chandrasekara Naidu)

c) Research Studies on "Women's employment in Tamil Nadu" (U. Kalpagam)

d) "The food economy of Tamil Nadu" (R.N. Poduval)

Training programme

a) Study classes to be held regularly for all members of the Institute. (A beginning was made for a series of "Saturday Sessions" during 1979-80 which, however, was discontinued after a while because of scheduling problems.)

b) Special training sessions to be organised for the Ph.D. scholars.

Conclusion

A theme that has been coming up frequently during the "House Sessions" is that although the reconstituted Institute is now more than two years old, it has not really "taken off" yet. The contention is, to some extent, true and there are some obvious explanations also. The Institute has not come to have the faculty strength it had planned. There have been financial uncertainties and physical facilities, particularly working space, have been limited. But one must not try to explain away what is, in effect, a creative discontent. It is hoped that with the larger and more senior faculty that we now have, and with the removal of some of the major physical constraints, the Institute will soon be able to make an impact in terms of the quality of its work.
